

Top Rankings

US News & World Report:

- UC Berkeley named No. 1 public university worldwide
- No. 9 School of Public Health nationwide
- No. 6 in Environmental Health

College Rank:

- No. 1 Public Health Online MPH

Student Life

- 1,121 on-campus graduate & undergraduate students
- 259 online MPH students
- 29% URM residential students
- More than 175 fellowships offered in the 2023/2024 academic year
- 50 Rural Health Innovation Fellows

Research Success

- Received $45.6 million in research grants
- More than 600 papers published in journals including The Lancet, JAMA, Nature, Science, and more

Fundraising Impact

Received support from > 2,400 donors for research, fellowships, faculty & social impact

Faculty Honors

- Stefano Bertozzi, MD, PhD, named editor-in-chief of new journal Rapid Reviews Infectious Diseases (RRID)
- Brenda Eskenazi, MA, PhD, received Child Advocate Award
- Ziad Obermeyer, MD, named a TIME Top 100 Leader in AI
- Filipa Rijo-Ferreira, PhD, MSc, named Searle Scholar
- Jingshen Wang, PhD, received an NSF Career Award
- Daniel Woolridge, MD, MPH, MS, received Emerging Health-Activist Award

Berkeley Public Health

Best of 2023

Changemaking at Berkeley Public Health

- UC Berkeley and Kaiser Permanente launched the California Center for Outbreak Readiness
- UC Berkeley-led California Alliance of Academics and Communities for Public Health Equity is established. The Alliance is a coalition of public health schools and civic groups working to advance health equity in California
- Racism & Health website launched
- Rural Health Innovation Program offers support for emerging rural public health leaders
- New Berkeley Center for Health Innovations and Entrepreneurship creates solutions for the health problems faced by an aging population
- Six new faculty hired with expertise in reproductive health, the health effects of climate change, the impact of health inequities, and more
- Social Impact Innovation Grant Program offers students support to establish community-based projects that improve health equity